

Acknowledgements

Every year we come up with a new topical theme for compilation of Anjali. This year, being one hundred and fiftieth birth anniversary of Rabindranath Tagore, we thought it would be most appropriate to dedicate Anjali 2010 to the memory of the poet, whose pervasive influence we continue to feel in all walks of our lives. Indeed, it was our love and admiration for this noble soul that had emboldened us to defy our shortcomings and urged us on in our venture.

As we initiated this venture, we contacted many writers here and abroad to collect their thoughts on Tagore. The overwhelming support we received from all of them helped us to compile the special section of Anjali. We extend our heartfelt thanks to all of them. We also thank every other contributor who has enriched other sections of Anjali by their valuable contributions.

The Embassy of India in Tokyo extended their gracious support for which we are very thankful. We hope to receive the same patronage in future as well. We would like to thank all advertisers who have sponsored this year's publication. We thank Syamal Kar, Arijit Basu, Sanjib Chanda, and Byomkesh Panda for their greater achievements in building up strong relationship with all our sponsors.

Anjali continues its multi-lingual nature through articles written by native speakers of different languages and various cultural backgrounds. We sincerely thank each of them for their support. Karabi Mukherjee, Bhaswati Ghosh, and Viswa Ghosh, helped us in proof reading. We are thankful to them. We also thank Shobi Insatsu for their ongoing support in printing Anjali.

At different stages of this process, we received valuable advices from many well wishers. We tried to incorporate their suggestions as much as possible, and convey our sincere thanks to all of them.

Lastly, we would like to appreciate Nishant (Sanjib and Meeta's son), who had to bear with us when we were engrossed in Anjali's preparation.
